Governor Vidyasagar Rao condoles demise of Dasari Narayana Rao

The Governor of Maharashtra and Tamil Nadu Chennamaneni Vidyasagar Rao has expressed grief over the demise of well known film producer-director-writer and former Minister Dasari Narayana Rao in Hyderabad on Tuesday (30 May). In a condolence message, Vidyasagar Rao has said:

“Sri Dasari Narayana Rao was one of the strongest pillars of the Telugu film industry. A complete film maker, Dasari was a brilliant director, producer, writer and screenplay writer. He knew the taste of the audience. He was among the few film makers, who made an equally impressive mark in Bollywood. As a Parliamentarian and as Minister at the national level, Dasari served the people of Telangana and Andhra Pradesh with great dedication. I had the privilege of knowing him for many years and had met him many times when I was Minister of State for Home Affairs in Government of India. With his demise, curtains have fallen on an era in Indian film industry. I pay my respects to the departed soul and convey my condolences to the bereaved family.”
